Comprehension:

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions:

Self-directed learning, in its broadest meaning, describes a process in which individuals take the initiative with or without the help of others, in diagnosing their learning needs, formulation of learning goals, identifying resources for learning, choosing and implementing learning strategies and evaluating learning, outcomes. Thus, it is important to attain new knowledge easily and skillfully for the rest of his or her life.

What is the need for self-directed learning? One reason is that there is convincing evidence that people, who take the initiative in learning, learn more things and learn better than people waiting to be taught. the second reason is that self-directed learning is more in tune with our natural processes of psychological development; an essential aspect of maturing is developing the ability to take increasing responsibility of our own lives to become increasingly self-directed. The third reason is that many of the new development in education put a heavy responsibility on the learners to take a good deal of initiative in their own learning. To meet the challenges in today's instructive environment, self-directed learning is most essential.

Comprehension:

Read the following paragraph and answer the questions.

Vinayak Damodar Savarkar is known to be an ardent nationalist, revolutionary, and a noted freedom fighter of India. He is regarded as the inspirational force behind the resurgence of Hindu nationalism in India. Veer Savarkar was kept as a prisoner at Andamans by the Britishers.

Savarkar's concept of Hindutva was comprehensive. For him, Hindutva implied not only the religious tenets of the Hindus, but also comprehended the cultural, social, political and linguistic aspects of their life. In his seminal work 'Hindutva' (1923), Savarkar asserted 'a Hindu means a person who regards this land of Bharatvarsha- from the Indus to the seas- as his fatherland as well as his Holyland, that is the cradle land of his religion'.

In his Presidential address to the Hindu Mahasabha at Ahmadabad (1937), Savarkar observed that the Hindus possess a common holyland. The Vedic Rishis are their common pride, their grammarians Panini and Patanjali, their poets Bhavabhooti and Kalidas, their heroes Shri Ram and Sri Krishna, Shivaji and Pratap, Guru Govind and Banda Bahadur are a common source of inspiration. Their prophets Buddha and Mahaveer, Kanad and Shankar, are held in common esteem... All tests whatsoever of a common country, race, religion, language that go to entitle a people to form a nation, entitle the Hindus with greater emphasis to that claim.

Savarkar was a powerful writer and orator. Some of his most important work includes, 'An Echo from Andamans'; 'Hindu Pad-Padshahi'; 'The Indian War of Independence'.

Read the following paragraph and answer the questions.

New patterns of interaction between governments and society can be observed in areas such as social welfare, environmental protection, education and physical planning. Development assistance to the Third World countries in the post- Cold War era has been subject to the new politics of good-governance. In 1989, the concept of 'governance' was for the first time highlighted in a World Bank document on Sub-Saharan Africa. Four key dimensions identified in this context were – public sector management; accountability; legal framework for development; and information and transparency. The OECD linked development assistance with participatory development, human rights and democratization.

The 'good governance' paradigm has brought to surface the role of civil society in local collective social problem solving. Alexis De Tocqueville linked civil society to democracy in the mid 1800s. Robert Putnam, the neo-Tocquevillian, emphasized on social capital and observed that the propensity of individuals to join private, voluntary associations contributes to the effectiveness of democracy. Larry Diamond in his work 'Developing Democracy', emphasized that a healthy liberal democracy requires a public that is organized for democracy, socialized to its norms and values and committed not just to its myriad narrow interests but to larger, common civic ends. Such a civic public is only possible with a vibrant civil society.
