Answer.

- 1. Lok Sabha (Ministry of Finance)
- 2. Parliament
- 3. Supreme Court
- 4. Executive

7. Why is the Prime Minister in India not directly elected by the people? Choose the most appropriate answer and give reasons for your choice.

- 1. In a Parliamentary democracy only the leader of the majority party in the Lok Sabha can become the Prime Minister.
- 2. Lok Sabha can remove the Prime Minister and the Council of Ministers even before the expiry of their term.
- 3. Since the Prime Minister is appointed by the President, there is no need for it.
- 4. Direct election of the Prime Minister will involve a lot of expenditure on election.

Answer.

- 1. In a Parliamentary democracy, only the leader of the majority party in the Lok Sabha can become the Prime Minister.

This is so that the Prime Minister of India can only be the leader of the majority party or parties in the Lok Sabha to ensure that the Prime Minister receives backing from the majority. The fact that he or she must collaborate with a council of ministers, will serve to prevent him or her from acting as either a dictator.

8. Three friends went to watch a film that showed the hero becoming Chief Minister for a day and making big changes in the state. Imran said this is what the country needs. Rizwan said this kind of personal rule without institutions is dangerous. Shankar said all this is a fantasy. No minister can do anything in one day. What would be your reaction to such a film?

Answer. No such provision exists where a guy might take over the role of CM for the day. A single individual cannot accomplish anything on his own. It is risky to have personal rules without organisations. Any state cannot function without a proper institution. The CM in our nation is chosen through a voting method. Important choices are made after deliberation and consultation as well. A law cannot be passed in a single day.

9. A teacher was making preparations for a mock parliament. She called two students to act as leaders of two political parties. She gave them an option: Each one could choose to have a majority either in the mock Lok Sabha or in the mock Rajya Sabha. If this choice was given to you, which one would you choose and why?

Answer. Since the Lok Sabha has more power than the Rajya Sabha, I would prefer to choose a majority there.

- Members of the Lok Sabha are chosen directly by Indian citizens.
- The prime minister is chosen from among the political party leaders with the majority in the Lok Sabha.
- The Rajya Sabha cannot reject a government budget or any other law relating to money passed by the Lok Sabha.
- The Council of Ministers is under the Lok Sabha's jurisdiction. The Council of Ministers must resign if a majority of the Lok Sabha members express their lack of confidence in it, although the Rajya Sabha has this authority.

10. After reading the example of the reservation order, three students had different reactions about the role of the judiciary. Which view, according to you, is a correct reading of the role of judiciary?

1. Srinivas argues that since the Supreme Court agreed with the government, it is not independent.

2. Anjaiah says that judiciary is independent because it could have given a verdict against the government order. The Supreme Court did direct the government to modify it.
3. Vijaya thinks that the judiciary is neither independent nor conformist, but acts as a mediator between opposing parties. The court struck a good balance between those who supported and those who opposed the order.

Answer. 2. Anjaiah says that the judiciary is independent is because it could have given a verdict against the government order. The Supreme Court did direct the government to modify it.
