Read the paragraph carefully and answer the question Nos. 96 to 100 given below:

..... Our aspects of economics describe the general phases of the process; production, exchange and consumption. In concrete reality we would find, however, that production may consist of agriculture, cattle herding or industry. Agriculture at times is carried-on, on the basis of the family, in which case this institution is also the productive agricultural unit. More frequently we find that the tilling of the soil mobilizes a special team of people, under the leadership of the chief, the local headman or perhaps the man who carries out garden magic. Such a team again is an institution in that it works under the charter of land tenure; of exchange of services; and the apportionment of the crops, including tribute to chief, headman or magician. The group who jointly till the soil are also the owners of the territory, which may be individually held under joint control. In the administration of justice, we may have, as already elaborated, a more or less crystallized system of guardians and wielders of customary law or else the knowledge of the rules and their administration may fall within the preview of groups organized on other principles. Disputes about land or produce are usually settled within the agricultural team, the leader and his assistant acting as the impartial authority. Domestic quarrels seldom go beyond the authority of the patriarch or matriarch within the household.
